Learning Content to Accelerate Employee Adoption of Your Business Processes

After implementation or upgrade of an ERP system, you most likely will have new or revised business processes that need to be adopted quickly by your employees. Providing them with learning opportunities and performance support they need is critical for success. This is where RWD uAccelerate™ can help.

RWD uAccelerate is a rapid, easy, and cost effective solution to help people learn about their business processes. It is a suite of web-based, self-paced eLearning courses that teach users the basics of business processes to support their performance on the job, current or new. The courses are interactive and include knowledge checks to help users stay engaged in the courseware and check their level of understanding. By leveraging these eLearning courses as a learning foundation, a company can focus its resources on supporting end users on their unique requirements.

Besides being available through online subscriptions, the courses can be easily customized using RWD uPerform® or RWD uPerform® Express. This includes the power of integrating company specific simulations, work instructions, and policy documents so everything is relevant and constantly up-to-date.

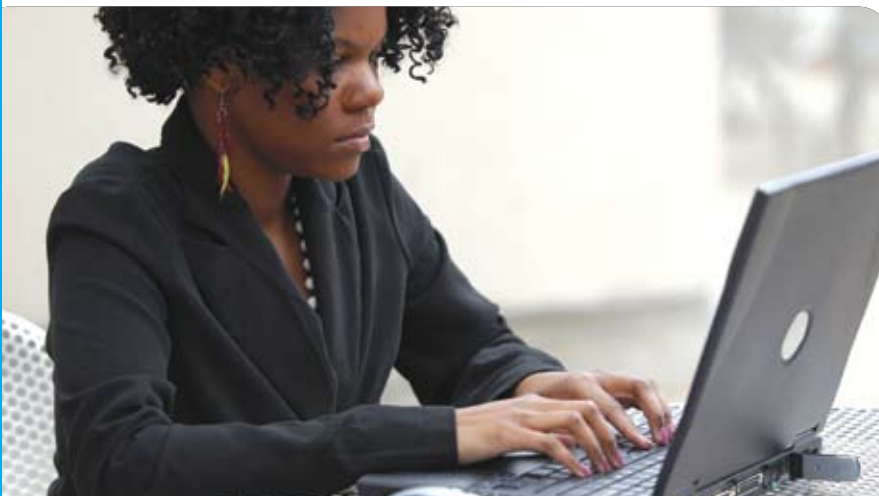

Current process areas:

- Finance
- Order to Cash
- CRM
- Purchase to Pay
- SRM

Key Benefits

- Off the shelf content to get you started and accelerate learning
- Reduced development time and costs
- Can be customized to support your specific information and business processes
- Rapid and easy to update and maintain
- Content can be self-paced or facilitated
- Viewable through a standard browser
- Accessible on the RWD Performance Matters hosted eLearning portal or onsite.

Key Challenges RWD uAccelerate™ Addresses:

- ERP Implementation Project Team needs a clear understanding of the high-level business processes that they will be implementing.
- The training budget and or development resources are limited and you want to only develop learning content for company specific processes.
- End users need an understanding of the business processes that they will be performing before specific learning content is available.
- New staff or job responsibilities demand just-in-time learning to understand the business processes that they will be performing.
- Optimize the use of your training budget and development resources by customizing existing content about your business processes instead of designing the information from scratch.

Leveraging RWD uAccelerate™ During all Phases of Your Implementation or Upgrade

Implementing or Upgrading an ERP Environment – RWD uAccelerate can be used to quickly bring your project team up to speed on the processes that they will be rolling out. This provides a baseline understanding before you begin blueprinting the new landscape.

Providing Company Specific Learning Materials – RWD uAccelerate content can be used as the foundation and accelerators for your courses and performance support. This allows you to spend more of your development time and resources to focus on your business specific tasks, procedures, and policies.

Post Go-live Support – RWD uAccelerate materials are available for just-in-time learning for new staff, changing roles, or refresher training and references as required.
